DEBATE 89

Brown, Effle and Sears vie for student president/regent office

By ERIC STOAKES

The three candidates for student president/regent re-affirmed their positions on several issues and fielded questions from panelists and students at a debate Friday in the Student Center Ballroom.

Paula Effle, Kelli Sears and Chad Brown, the three candidates for the office, attended the debate, which was sponsored by Student Government's Council for Community and Legislative Relations (CCLR).

Students can vote for student president/regent Wednesday and Thursday.

Chris McClenny, CCLR director, moderated the debate, and Dave Manning, associate editor of the Gateway, Bobby Loud, chairman of the Student Programming Organization's (SPO) Issues and Ideas Committee, and Ruffino Villareal, a member of the Pi Gamma Mu social science honorary, served as panelists.

The candidates' opening introductions were followed by questions from each panelist to each candidate. Before the candidates' closing remarks, audience members were able to address them with any questions that they had.

During his opening remarks, Brown said one of his primary platform issues involves funding departmental and student organizations. Brown said funding should be directed toward those groups and called his theory "Splash Economics."

"When you put the money in the middle (with departments and organizations), you can develop stronger relations," he said.

Besides his Splash theory, Brown said the addition of an "on-board, on-campus apprenticeship/internship program" could create student incentives.

"It would make available, to any student willing to participate, a chance to get involved in organizations," Brown said. "And that would tie directly in with Splash Economics. I can't really explain it (Splash) much better than that. I really didn't prepare for this; I only found out about it last night."

During her opening remarks, Incumbent Student President/Regent Effle, who is running for a second term, said everyone needs to remember that if it were not for the students, there would not be a university.

"In the next 12 months, 18 months, two years, UNO has a lot of opportunities to make a lot of advances," she said.

With the possible addition of Kearney State College into the University of Nebraska system and the search for a new university president, Effle said UNO has chance to get "a piece of that pie."

"We're all here for a reason, and that reason is to get the best education possible, and there are things we need to do to get that," Effle said. "First, we need adequate, efficient and available advising. It should not always be the students' responsibility to find the adviser. Sometimes it should be the adviser's responsibility to outreach to the students."

More services for part-time evening students also need to be explored, according to the student president/regent.

"Particularly in areas of cashiering, the Registrar's office — the whole registration process needs to be revised for part-time students who work during the day and just can't get to campus."

Effle said expanded evening services can be accomplished by setting up a central information office which is more extensive than the one currently on campus; an office where students can go concerning anything from the UNO sexual discrimination policy to financial aid.

"Any of those questions can be funneled through one office, and the people working in that office would do the running around that most students do when they are looking for answers to those questions," Effle said.

During her opening remarks, candidate Kelli Sears said her main goal is to get quality representation on the NU Board of Regents.

"That's the most important thing that a student regent can do for this university," Sears said. "Since I've been at UNO, I have been involved in Student Government, I've been a senator for two years, and I've also worked with the administration," Sears said.

The candidates' opening remarks were followed by questions from the three panelists. Loud asked Brown what his priorities in school were, and what he could do on behalf of student organizations so UNO "just doesn't have another lame-duck student president/regent."

Brown said one of his priorities involves increasing student participation in student organizations.

"I think the issue of money is simply a big issue," Brown added. "To center the money with departmental organizations and student organizations, you create a strong relationship."

He said student fee money should be allocated by the students because "it is the students' money."

Loud also asked Brown why he should be elected to office.

"I'm new," Brown said. "And I can bring fresh ideas to the senate. I have a diverse variety of friends. No one is going to be able to identify with everybody. I feel I have many more qualifications compared to most people at this school as far as my communication abilities, even though it doesn't show right now."

Manning asked Effle what the future of NU's Central Administration will be and, if possibly, it should be scrapped entirely.

"The self-assessment that the university is conducting now is a key part to the selection of the next president," Effle said. "We need a stern analysis of what we're doing and what is being duplicated at the other campuses."

Effle said UNO can sometimes give better recommendations than the Central Administration on issues relating to UNO.

"We (UNO) can assess what our needs are rather than somebody 60 miles away in Vanner Hall who doesn't have day to day, hands-on contact with the students," Effle said. "There needs to be a real stern analysis of what we're doing, what Central Administration is accomplishing, and what is happening between and among each campus."

Ruffino asked Sears what could be done to solve the contingency problem in Student Government. In August, the Central Administration recommended to UNO's Student Government to stop funding student organizations. Two weeks ago, Sears began a petition asking for support of Student Government's funding of student organizations.

"It (organization funding) has to be looked at and considered carefully," Sears said. "We want to make the right decision, and we want to make sure that funding is not lost."

The student president/regent should work to get that funding back, Sears said. "You have to consider every avenue and every possibility before making a specific decision," she said. "The petition is to show support and say, 'Yes we need this funding, and we need it right now.'"

Manning asked Brown if he would support the possible addition of doctoral programs at UNO.

"I would support them whole heartedly," Brown said. "Doctoral programs would benefit the whole school. They would bring in more research money, and they would make the school look a heckuva a lot better and create the incentive for people to want to get involved because they would be available."

Villareal asked Effle about the minority recruitment and retention problem at UNO.

Effle said she has been working with the vice chancellor and the Educational and Student Services office in finding long-term goals to help with the recruitment and retention of minority students.

"We're specifically identifying the services needed for minority students to keep them in school," Effle said. "We need to increase cooperation between the United Minority Students' agency and the administration because the administration has longevity and continuity and the ability to structure and continue year after year."

Effle said UNO needs to use all resources it has to solve the problem.

Loud asked Sears how she will represent students effectively.

"When I make a decision, I want to make sure I am correctly representing those students," Sears said. "As far as the petition goes, I have talked with a lot of students, and I have gotten a lot of student input."

Sears said she receives student input by "just going around campus and talking to students and asking them what their problems are."

"That's what the student regent should do," she said. "The problems are not going to come to you. You're going to have to find them. The student representative needs to be very visible and very open to students."

Villareal asked Brown his views on student organization funding and what his plan en-

If you don't vote, you hurt yourself

In case you hadn't noticed, the Gateway wants you to vote in Student Government elections this year.

Last year less than 10 percent of the student body voted, and that, fellow students, is a damned shame.

You may not have been here at that time, or you may have been too busy. But there's a good chance you just didn't care.

It's your prerogative, of course. But why even waste Student Government's time when they print a ballot for you? Why don't you just pay an extra $7.50 in student fees for every semester you plan on attending UNO?

Student Government is delegated the power of allocating that money every semester, amounting to nearly a quarter of a million dollars, all from student fees.

After you graduate, you can continue your practice of paying off government officials in exchange for losing the responsibility of voting.

And then, you ignorant mess, that group,

Staff-EDITORIAL

like UNO's Student Government, can do whatever it wants, and you can't really complain: If you don't vote, you shouldn't have a say in any government concerns.

Voting, in any election, is more than a right or a privilege. It is a duty, something you owe to yourself and your future.

Unfortunately, special interest groups more often than not make sure a particular candidate gets elected to further a specific cause on campus.

The Student Senate is supposed to represent all the students on campus, and so is the student president/regent, and not a particular fraternity, sorority, agency, organization or even (perish the thought) the Gateway.

The polls will be open tomorrow and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Student Center, next to the Games Desk.

You don't need a No. 2 pencil or a calculator. Just bring common sense and good judgement, and vote. That's not too much to ask.

Editor's NOTE

It's that time of year again.

Student elections will be held Wednesday and Thursday, and no matter who you support politically, the student body needs your vote—wherever it happens to fall on the ballot.

Last year, and in previous years, the Gateway has opened the non-partisan curtain and supported a candidate for the office of student president/regent. Not this year.

You have three officially recognized candidates running for the office: Chad Brown, Paula Effle and Kelli Sears. Each candidate has demonstrated his or her own strengths and weaknesses. If you have not been following the Gateway's candidate coverage, here's a chance to form your own checklist.

Paula Effle, the incumbent student president/regent and probably the one to beat in this election, has shown over the last year that she can effectively work with the Board of Regents. That's not an easy job considering controversial actions the board has taken in the past few months. Although she has been criticized for not "adequately" representing the students, Paula seems genuinely concerned with issues on and off this campus.

So rate Paula a big E for experience.

14 out of 14 UNO STUDENTS PAY STUDENT FEES, WHICH STUDENT GOVT. SPENDS.

14 out of 14 UNO STUDENTS ARE AFFECTED BY STUDENT GOVT.

14 out of 14 UNO STUDENTS COULD VOTE FOR STUDENT GOVT.

1 out of 14 DID LAST YEAR.

13 out of 14 HAVE NO ROOM TO BITCH. GET OUT AND VOTE.

Kelli Sears, a student senator, has demonstrated in the past year that she's not afraid of becoming actively involved in the Student Senate and in her campaign for student president/regent. Kelli's petition to garner support for the funding of student organizations also shows that the candidate doesn't shy away from making a loud and clear stance on an important problem facing this campus.

Rate Kelli a big I for initiative.

Chad Brown, running with his Cash Money Dollar Bills political party, is easily the under dog in this year's election. Chad's inexperience in Student Government may hinder his credibility, but the candidate is definitely not short on new ideas. His "Splash Economics" proposal, although, in his own words, is "hard to explain," shows that Chad is looking toward new solutions to some old problems. This ingenuity may help him through some of the road blocks that the student president/regent must usually face while in office.

Rate Chad a big C for creativity.

So what do these ratings mean? Only to vote.

And remember: If you are not satisfied with any of the candidates on the ballot, you have the option to write-in whoever you want.

tails.

"It's really a three-point plan," Brown said. "It involves matching funds, creating incentives by way of college credit and starting the on-board, on-campus apprenticeship/internship program."

Brown said when student incentives are created, UNO can create stronger programs. He said his matching funds idea would revolve around what an organization makes at a particular fund-raiser.

"Say an organization makes $200, then you would take a percentage of that and give it back to them," Brown said. "I can't get into specifics because I'm not part of the well-oiled machine we have on the Student Senate."

Loud asked Effle whether or not long-term planning in minority recruitment and retention would help minority students presently on campus.

"We need to react to the problem," Effle said. "We need to determine why there is a decline, and we need to attack the problem and not the symptom," she said. "One of the biggest problems on campus is we tend to attack the symptom instead of attacking the root of the problem."

She said UNO needs to determine the "root of the problem. And that involves a coordinated effort to make sure everyone is trying to solve the same problem."

Manning asked Sears whether the possible addition of Kearney State College would have a positive or negative effect on UNO.

"The addition of Kearney State would have a positive effect on UNO," Sears said. "It would de-centralize the power of UNL (University of Nebraska-Lincoln) and spread it out through Kearney and UNO." Sears said the Kearney merger would also split regent support of UNL.

After the panelists' questions, the candidates received questions from audience members. One student asked Effle why she left a closed regents' meeting in June when the issue of former NU President Ronald Roskens' salary and future in the NU system was discussed.

"The three student regents were asked to voluntarily leave," Effle said. "The three of us chose to do so because, simply, we needed the opportunity to step back from outside of it and come back into it."

Effle said she disagreed with the regents' decision to remove Roskens from office and their appointment of UNL Chancellor Martin Massengale as interim president.

"I think the board made a very big mistake, a very expensive mistake, and we're going to see that in the next legislative session," Effle said.

After the audience's questions, the candidates gave their closing remarks.

Brown, who is running on the Cash Money Dollar Bills political party ticket, urged voters to elect students for the senate who are running with him on the party ticket.

"This group can make some changes that need to be made immediately, and they can be made monetarily, and they need to be made now, and they need to be made in the Student Senate," Brown said. "Next week when you vote and you want to see changes, vote Cash Money Dollar Bills. If you don't (want to see changes), then don't vote Cash Money Dollar Bills."

In her closing remarks, Effle re-affirmed her position on funding of student organizations.

"It is student money, contingency is your money, and it's your money whether you are involved in student organizations, whether you are a part-time student, whether you are male, female, black, white, whatever, it's your money.

"This year's contingency had $15,000," Effle said. "I'm not sure that (student organization funding) is the best way to spend that money. I think there are a lot of ways we could be re-investing that money on campus to benefit students. We need to take a hard look at where we want our student fee money to go."

During her closing remarks, Sears said she is concerned with all the issues on campus.

"I know I'm working on solving the contingency problem, but that doesn't mean I am ignoring the other problems on this campus," Sears said. "I stress I am very open to student input and very open to know what those problems are and try to solve them as the student representative."

"I'm qualified, and I'm experienced in the senate. And I feel I can do an adequate job as student president/regent," Sears added.

Another student president/regent debate will be held today in the Student Center Ballroom.

Computer screen-saver really a Commie plot

In this day of perestroika and glasnost, most of you probably can't remember the days of the Cold War, when there was a Communist hiding behind every bush (small "b," absolutely no pun intended).

Believe it or not, I don't remember the Cold War too well myself. But from what I do recall, and from what I've been told by older people, the 1950s were characterized by widespread paranoia (Yes, Stacey, there are a few people older than I am).

Sen. McCarthy's investigations and hearings certainly did nothing to discourage the population-wide Commie hunt. Premier Krushchev's shoe-banging and promises to "bury us" didn't help, either.

Since we held a pretty clear edge in strategic weapons at the time, most people believed the Russians could only defeat our country from within. Consequently, anyone who didn't fit the boy-or-girl-next-door image must certainly be an evil Commie pinko.

Just about any misfortune, from pot holes to an early frost to tooth decay, could be blamed on Communist infiltrators.

Oddly enough, the fight against tooth decay gave the Communists a perfect opportunity to advance their dastardly plans. Those evil geniuses convinced us that fluoride in our drinking water would prevent tooth decay.

Do you think the American Dental Association members would go along with such an idea if they were not infiltrated with Communists?

Of course not. Think of the business their members would lose if this stuff really prevented cavities.

All of them, Happy Tooth included, were in league with the Communies. Fluoride was really a diabolical drug that would turn us all into passive zombies who would let the Russians just walk in and take over.

"How could people be so naive?" you ask.

What makes you so sure they were wrong?

The failure of the fluoride plan doesn't mean they've given up.

I am here to tell you Chicken Little was right. The sky is falling.

Bill WILSON COLUMNIST

Don't be fooled by all these democratic changes in Poland and Hungary. It's all part of the evil ploy.

Just when everyone thinks the Communies are coming over to our way — just when we let our guard down — they come up with the ultimate underhanded plot.

Remember, you read it here first. I only hope my warning hasn't come too late.

The latest, most fiendish of all Communist takeover plots is — are you ready for this? — computer-screen saver programs.

You know what I mean — those blue, white and purple lines dancing from corner to corner across idle computer monitors like a runaway Slinky.

The Commie-infiltrated computer industry tells us we need these moving images so they won't stay in one place long enough to burn permanent impressions into our screens.

Don't you believe it.

If they wanted to protect the screen, why can't they make them go blank? Or just let you turn them off?

No, there is a subtle, but inexorable, hypnosis in the purple and white and blue electronic dance. And once we are all mesmerized, the Russians take over without firing a shot (According to my calculations, we will be ripe for the taking by April 1).

"What about the people who don't work with computers?" you may ask.

I am sad to report that all 426 people left in this country who do not have daily contact with computers already fell victim to the fluoride plot.

What can you do? Plenty.

Do not set foot in the Durham Science Center or CBA computer user rooms again until you are shielded from the multiple screen-saver images.

"Shielded how?" you must surely be asking.

Fear not.

For the amazingly low price of just $19.95, plus $2.50 shipping and handling, I will send you a pair of Wilson Deluxe Commie Shield Screen-Saver Image Deflecting Glasses. Visa and Mastercard gladly accepted.

If you don't want to give up the taste of apple pie, don't wait another minute. Order now, before it's too late.

STUDENT ELECTIONS '89

the STUDENT GOVERNMENT candidates

Student President/Regent

Chad Peter Douglas Brown

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: Well, we all seem to forget that there are about 32 students who decide where our student fees get to go. My reason is to refresh the memory of the students.

CONCERNS: The fact that many students are unaware of UNO's potential, and that UNO has an inadequate participation level. Instability of student organizations, and the fact that the leaders of this school (including the senate) have trouble realizing that this school must make changes now to prepare this university for the future.

QUALIFICATIONS: As Waldo Emerson once said, "I am what I know, and I seem to be what others see about me." And Albert Einstein, "Imagination is more important than knowledge."

Paula Dyan Effie

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: The next year will be critical for the University of Nebraska at Omaha. With the introduction of Kearney State College into the system and the search for the next president of the University of Nebraska, UNO stands to gain tremendous ground. The student regent from UNO will need the ability to effectively translate UNO student needs to the Board of Regents and to turn the regents' attention to UNO.

CONCERNS: There are literally hundreds of issues UNO students deserve to have addressed, but there are three top priorities. Academic advising needs to be more accessible, more efficient and more effective. Long-term strategic planning needs to be implemented to solve issues of parking and on-campus housing, and there must be an increase in services to minority students and disabled students, again requiring long-term strategic planning.

QUALIFICATIONS: As the current student regent, I understand the attitudes and leanings of the members of the Board of Regents; this knowledge is paramount in the ability to persuade those regents on UNO issues. Additionally, I am aware of the issues facing the university and the students. There is much work to be done, and a strong Student Government organization can do much toward setting and meeting those goals of student services.

Kelli K. Sears

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: Holding the office of student president/regent has been a goal of mine since I have been at UNO. Through determination and hard work, in my endeavors, I am now prepared to take on the responsibility of this office. To the best of my ability, I will use my leadership skills to represent UNO's student body respectfully and fairly.

CONCERNS: To preserve student organization funding, working towards ensuring doctoral programs and quality representation of UNO on the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

QUALIFICATIONS: My experience, knowledge and ability to attain organizational goals qualifies me for the office of president/regent. I have been a member of the senate for two years where I chair for the Student Affairs Committee.

Senior Class

Timothy S. Lonergan

POLITICAL PARTY: Republican

REASONS: A) To bring maturity and political experience to Student Government. B) To represent UNO and my senior class with dignity. C) To help recognize UNO with the Omaha community.

CONCERNS: Representing my constituents fairly. Being open minded to new ideas within SG-UNO Agencies, promoting growth at UNO with recruiting freshmen, and improving the quality of education at UNO.

QUALIFICATIONS: I was a student senator from '87-88 and participated in the 1988 president/regent campaign. Help out on various campaigns in local area. I am well versed in the political jockeying of your student government. Will bring the responsibility to Student Government that is well needed.

Michelle Lynn Mercer

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: I feel the International Studies department and languages are not given enough credit for their excellence and importance at UNO. I want to make UNO's treatment of world issues a recognized feature of UNO and raise the conscience of the student body in the matter of world concerns.

CONCERNS: Student fee increases, the parking situation and budget allocations between UNL/UNO.

QUALIFICATIONS: My knowledge of campus affairs, my network of friends involved at UNO.

Charles S. Valgora

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: I have enjoyed being active in Student Senate the past two years.

CONCERNS: Parking, Big hair and Alarm Clocks.

QUALIFICATIONS: I was King.

Junior Class

Raymond George Agosta

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: I think I could do a fine job.

CONCERNS: Alienation of Student Government. Allocation of student funds. Upgrading student moral.

QUALIFICATIONS: I'm ambitious, motivated and a hard worker. Dissatisfaction of current student government. I have a great desire to make a positive difference concerning UNO, its students and the image toward the community.

Paul L. Hays

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: Concerned over the impending decision by SG over Fund C and/or funding of student organizations. Also concerned with some of the past decisions of SG.

CONCERNS: Fund C, Child Care Center expansion, exorbitant amount in the SG Contingency/Capitol Improvement Fund.

QUALIFICATIONS: Student Senator — two years. Past Chairman-Student Senate Budget Committee, Student Activities Budget Commission — two years.

Jill Anne Hornstein

POLITICAL PARTY: none

REASONS: I am currently a senator and not only do I thoroughly enjoy it, I feel I have contributed positively to the organization. I enjoy being involved and making decisions that will affect myself and the University as a whole. It is also interesting to see how government itself operates.

CONCERNS: The general unity and involvement of the student body at UNO, to appropriate funding of the student body at UNO and maintaining and facilitating a proper flow of communication between the general student body of UNO and the Nebraska Board of Regents.

QUALIFICATIONS: I feel that I have a genuine concern for the welfare of UNO and the students that attend the university. I am highly motivated and would work hard to see that the best interests of the students are served. I am a present senator and therefore I already am familiar with what the office of senator entails.

Bradley John Thiel

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: Hopefully, to inspire other students to get involved. This school could be a fine place to go. We need to rid the senate of the bozos that occupy it now. My ego says that I'm upstanding and patriotic enough to do this job.

CONCERNS: The way our cash money is being spent. Alienation of the UNO-SG toward the UNO Student Body and student organizations. Lack of adequate facilities in various departments in the University.

QUALIFICATIONS: Like my brother Chuck D. says, "What's a brother know?"

Sophomore Class

Douglas Brian Fitzekam

POLITICAL PARTY: Republican

REASONS: I would very much like to be more involved with university activities. I am interested in politics and eager to learn more and help out in the Student Government of UNO. I know I would make a difference if I were elected to the senate. I want to be heard from!

CONCERNS: There are several issues that are a concern to me. The lack of school spirit, in CBA — better career counseling for students selecting the right classes and the different (degree of difficulty) in tests for the same classes but from different professors.

QUALIFICATIONS: I have a very good GPA, and I am a fast learner. I try to apply myself very efficiently. I have adequate knowledge of the University and I want to learn more.

Douglas S. Cranfield

POLITICAL PARTY: Republican

REASONS: Feel I can put forth the effort and the time to make a difference in the student government at UNO.

CONCERNS: School spirit and pride. Representation of interest groups at UNO. Student rights and privileges within the university system.

QUALIFICATIONS: (Three positions in Pi Kappa Alpha) 1) Pledge class vice president 2) Fund raising chairman 3) Philanthropy/Public Relations chairman 4) I want and drive to work with others to accomplish goals

Lee D. Millward

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: I want to be big! Bigger than any of those big honchos out there in the big, bad, ugly world. If I could just win this one. Just get my teeth around a big chunk of that big cherry pie out there in the sky. I'd be set for life.

CONCERNS: 1) UNO 2) UNO 3) UNO

QUALIFICATIONS: A mild manner, marvelous GPA, deep set eyes and a furrowed brow. Not to mention, I know my politics. But to tell you the truth, I don't really think I'm cut out for it.

Margaret A. Nalty

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: I am running for a sophomore class senate seat so that I can return to the senate the knowledge I have gained as a freshman class senator. I feel my experience, enthusiasm and optimism will be an asset to the 1989-90 senate.

CONCERNS: Three issues that are of great concern to me include the loss of funding to student organizations, handicap accessibility on campus and projecting a more positive image of what Student Government and its agencies do and the services they provide.

QUALIFICATIONS: I feel I am qualified for office because I served as a freshmen class senator, a member and interim chair of the Oversight Committee and chairman of the Student Government Ad Hoc Committee on Handicapped Accessibility. These qualifications, as well as my involvement in competitive speaking, have given me the ability I need to communicate and work effectively with others.

Louise Andree Ruetz

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: To have a voice in student affairs and to accurately represent the student.

CONCERNS: Distribution and usage of student funds, upgrading student morale by improving UNO's image and improving student body/Student Government relations.

QUALIFICATIONS: Strong desire to make a positive impact to benefit the entire UNO community and to accurately represent its changing needs.

Mark Ed Stoj

POLITICAL PARTY: Independent

REASONS: To change the view of UNO among citizens of Omaha, and students here, from calling our university "The University of No Opportunity" to "The University of Neo-Optimism."

CONCERNS: The humiliation of UNO students and the university itself by social fraternities that publicly embarrass their new members to prove their membership; We are heading into the '90s and this university still has no housing; low morale and self-confidence of the students about UNO.

QUALIFICATIONS: I am a human being and student first and a politician/bureaucrat last. I have held many positions in the organizations I have belonged to, and have experienced various facets of student life.

Freshman Class

Natalie Leonhardt

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: I'd like to make a positive impact on the decisions made by student government.

CONCERNS: Allocation of student funds, increasing student morale and stopping alienation of Student Government.

QUALIFICATIONS: I see a need to represent the student body that is not being met.

Michael McKenna

POLITICAL PARTY: Independent

REASONS: I do not believe that you can be a student and not care about Student Government.

CONCERNS: I believe that the lack of student parking and the need for a larger staffed Financial Aid office are two primary campus needs. On a larger scale, however, I am deeply concerned about the effects of drugs and gang violence in the community.

QUALIFICATIONS: I am extremely dedicated, open minded and willing to listen to the concerns of freshmen. Coming from one of the toughest cities on the planet (New York), I'll fight to have these concerns heard and satisfied.

Trent Joseph Marr

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: To become more involved in UNO current affairs and also to represent the freshman class. To provide strong experienced leadership which is not well represented.

CONCERNS: To develop stronger communication between faculty, students and the administration, funding for student organizations and maintaining the high level of incoming freshmen.

QUALIFICATIONS: I have had mass experience in high school of holding student offices. I also have committed myself to several local campaigns and two national campaigns. I have also had experience in top leadership positions in and outside school and work.

Deborah Osborn

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: My reason for running for freshmen class representative is to represent my class to the best of my ability and to voice their concerns to the Student Senate.

CONCERNS: Three issues of most concern to me are the allocation of funds, support of student organizations and the lack of knowledge of what student government is an does for UNO.

QUALIFICATIONS: In high school I was on student council for three years. My senior year being the vice president/secretary, and I was appointed freshman representative on SG-UNO, where I've been serving for two months.

Graduate Class

James Bath

NO INFORMATION AVAILABLE

David Whittaker Holmes

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: To bring my experience and campus ties to the student senate to provide the senate with a variety of viewpoints and ideas. The Graduate class, in the past, has been weakly represented and I'm running to provide a strong voice for our universities Graduate students.

CONCERNS: Funding to student organizations, increasing communication ties between students, faculty and administration and the ever-growing concern of big hair on campus.

QUALIFICATIONS: One year Student Senate experience and one year experience of Budget Committee. Well informed about what's happening on campus from senate involvement. Current UNO Ambassador and member of Psi-Chi Honor Society and Golden Key National Honor Society. A member of Vice-chancellor Hoover's student leadership council.

Arts and Sciences

Shannon M. Atwood

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: I would like an opportunity to represent UNO and its students in the Student Government. I have many new ideas that could benefit the student body as well as a desire to give UNO students the best representation possible.

CONCERNS: The three issues of most concern to me are the funding of student organizations, student involvement in the university and its functions and the status of women and minorities at UNO.

QUALIFICATIONS: I have had experience on the senate representing the Arts and Sciences college. I have a working knowledge of all important issues that are before the senate, and I am a student who wants to get things done for the university and the student body.

Christopher Majek Carter

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: I want to be the Arts and Sciences' students voice on the senate. I have many ideas that I feel would help the student body and UNO. I want to be there to make the difference. Why am I running ... because I care.

CONCERNS: Parking, senate allocation of funds to organizations and accountability.

QUALIFICATIONS: SG-UNO Senator '88-89, chairman of SG-UNO Ad Hoc Committee to improve handicap accessibility on campus, student representative on Vice Chancellor Hoover's Handicap Accessibility Committee, member of Student Affairs Committee, member of Oversight Committee, Chairman of Campus Relations Committee for the Council of Community and Legislative Relations (CCLR), Sales Director of KBLZ '87-88, General Manager of KBLZ '88-present, helped organize Student Organizations Summit (SOS), helped start the Forum (CCLR newsletter).

Joseph J. Chapuran Jr.

POLITICAL PARTY: D.A.M.M.

REASONS: So the people at UNO can finally get things done for them instead of having our so-called representatives serve as "Yes-men" to larger organizations which will remain unnamed, representatives spend time on arguing for political purposes instead of using it constructively.

CONCERNS: Parking problem, funding of UNO clubs bring cut off and acquisition of radio transmitter.

QUALIFICATIONS: Being a student here for three years and involved in many activities and organizations. I feel I would have an attitude better representing the average UNO student who is fed up with the parking situation and the messed-up state the UNO governing body is in, and who isn't in a fraternity or sorority.

Gary Dean Davis

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: Having observed previous student senates, I feel very alienated by their actions. I hope to put the student back into Student Senate.

CONCERNS: The distribution of student funds. The reputation of the university. The improvement of student life on campus.

QUALIFICATIONS: Being at the University of Nebraska at Omaha for four and a half years, I have observed the needs of the students, I know what the students want.

W. David Littrell

NO INFORMATION AVAILABLE

Marc Deats

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: It gives me a direct voice in the addressing and dealing with issues that govern and regulate me. I would rather speak for myself than have someone speak for me.

CONCERNS: The teacher's answerability to students. So many cars, so little space. Where does all the money go?

QUALIFICATIONS: Three years at UNO. I'm very objective. I'm not willing to just go with a consensus.

Kevin McEvoy

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: To take an active role in the affairs of the university. Also, to create a more efficient atmosphere for the conducting of student affairs.

CONCERNS: Use of student fees. Say of students in the university system as a whole. Efficiency of Student Government.

QUALIFICATIONS: A recognition of some shortcomings of Student Government and a number of creative ideas to strengthen UNO as a whole.

Mary Reynolds

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: I would like to continue to represent the students of the College of Arts and Sciences. The last two years of my involvement with Student Government have been valuable and productive. I hope to continue to provide a voice for Arts and Sciences students, as well as student input on the important issues of the year.

CONCERNS: Allocation of student fees in a manner most beneficial and effective to the student population. Ensure sufficient communication of student needs and issues the administration for cooperation to achieve goals. Provide adequate programs and services for minority students including those with disabilities and women.

QUALIFICATIONS: I have been involved with Student Government for the past two years as a senator. I have also served as the Rules Committee Chair and the Speaker of the Senate. Through this previous involvement, I have gained leadership skills to enable me to serve as a senator and see the results of my efforts. I also have determination and enthusiasm for this office, which will allow me to continue to serve as an effective voice for student concerns.

Business Administration

Chuck Amoura

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: To help promote thoughts and ideas that are in the best interest of UNO students as individuals.

CONCERNS: Library hours, parking problem, and funds for student organizations.

QUALIFICATIONS: I have been a UNO student for three years and presently hold an officer position in the business organization Phi Chi Theta.

Joseph J. Butlerman

POLITICAL PARTY: Democrat

REASONS: I want to improve the communication between the students and the university — if you can keep the students informed, then they will want to be involved. There is a continuing need for good leadership.

CONCERNS: Continued Student Senate allocation of funds to student organizations. Smoke-free break/study environment in CBA. Require the UNO Bookstore to publish an annual report detailing revenues and expenses and to justify them.

QUALIFICATIONS: 1) I have the time available to serve in the senate. 2) I believe in the political process. 3) My two years on campus has allowed me to understand and offer solutions for the issues and problems of the university.

Raymond Remijlo

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: After watching senate meetings for the past year, I have seen too many senators represent the administration and not the students who elected them. Student Government is no place to build resumes. Being a Hispanic student I feel it is necessary to represent minority students as well as my college.

CONCERNS: The loss of funding to student organizations. Increase effectiveness of Student Government is necessary to combat student apathy. Sensitivity and awareness of minority concerns on campus.

QUALIFICATIONS: I am currently involved in Student Government as a Budget Committee member. I am also president of the Hispanic Students Organization. Elected as one of thirty students on the Vice Chancellor's Leadership Council, Goodrich Guide for the Goodrich Scholarship program. I have a good understanding of the issues that are facing our campus.

Mark E. Welsch

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: I have seen a gross injustice on campus. A small minority of students and staff are inflicting pain and suffering on the majority at UNO. This tiny group smokes tobacco. All break rooms, in all buildings, have been set aside for this minority to fill with their deadly smoke. We are all at risk because this smoke is forced into every room through the heating system. An institution of higher learning should be led by people who keep themselves informed on many issues, and take appropriate action when new information shows it is warranted.

QUALIFICATIONS: I have been active in the protection of people's health for the past six years by working for non-smokers' rights to clean indoor air. I am currently the president of GASP of Nebraska (Group to Alleviate Smoking Pollution) in Omaha. It's not the smoker we mind, it's the smoke. I have also been very active in other environmental issues.

Graduate College

Rich Bennett

POLITICAL PARTY: Cash Money Dollar Bills

REASONS: I would like to contribute my ideas toward the continued improvement of UNO both as an educational institution in itself and as an asset to the Omaha community.

CONCERNS: Tuition and student fee increases. Increasing UNO's international awareness. Decreased availability of group study facilities at the library.

QUALIFICATIONS: I have attended UNO for five years while working and have been a member of various campus and non-campus organizations. I am concerned about the long term growth of UNO and I feel I can contribute to it's further betterment.

Allison Jo Brown-Corson

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: To become involved in Student Government again.

CONCERNS: Graduate students paying more to take classes at PKCC. Graduate students taking classes at PKCC inability to use the HPER Building. Parking.

QUALIFICATIONS: Past UNO student body president/regent, three years UNO Student Senate, past president of Omicron Delta Kappa.

Adele J. Johnson

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: To promote student welfare and to make sure all are represented fairly.

CONCERNS: Minority retention on campus, women's issues and handicapped problems.

QUALIFICATIONS: I am currently a senator and am genuinely trying to help the students on campus.

Continuing Studies

Michael McLaurin

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: To become more involved in student activities and the policies that affect students.

CONCERNS: Elections rules. Acceptance of Kearney State into NU system. Funding of student organizations.

QUALIFICATIONS: Political science minor, 3.5 GPA, Golden Key National Honor Society.

Brian Callaghan

Fine Arts

Matthew Shrader

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: In talking with some of the other students in my college, they told me that I represented them well in the past year. My leadership qualities have been proven more than once when funding for the new Fine Arts Education Building was in doubt.

CONCERNS: Making sure that the Department of Book Arts is considered just as important as the music, drama and visual arts departments. Increasing the possibilities of joint projects between two or more departments. Getting more non-majors to participate in some of the college's drama and music productions.

QUALIFICATIONS: A full year of experience as a senator. Previous involvement in the drama department and current involvement in the music department. One of the creators of the successful petition drive to keep funding for the new Fine Arts Education Building in the state budget.

Kathy Ballard

POLITICAL PARTY: Independent

REASONS: I want to be more involved in all the arts on campus.

CONCERNS: Conservation. Support of the arts. Increased Minority Services.

QUALIFICATIONS: I've had some experience with the senate through the CCLR and I appreciate drama, music and literature as well as the visual arts.

University Division

Misty Franklin

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: I enjoy politics and working with people. I feel that this is an excellent opportunity for me to use my skills to work with and represent the students and UNO.

CONCERNS: I'm most concerned with the loss of funds to student organizations and the growing problem of parking; on the positive side, I am very excited about the possibility of a doctoral program at UNO. I intend to work toward solving these problems and putting my full support behind the doctoral program.

QUALIFICATIONS: I was appointed to Student Government one month ago. My past job experience has increased my skills in working with people, as did my community work as a leader for a local Girl Scout troop.

Gerald Michael O'Doherty

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: Become active within the UNO community, have a say in what happens on campus — instead of being a bystander that complains about the happenings on campus.

CONCERNS: Student fees — making sure the student is getting the most for their money, and that fees don't get unreasonably high. Getting more students involved — creating college life. Hopefully getting dorms on campus, at least starting the push for dorms.

QUALIFICATIONS: I've been a senator two months; by appointment. In high school: Student Council for four years and I was the president my last year. Also, I was very active in many other activities like president of NHS, co-captain of the varsity basketball team.

Engineering/Technology

Brad R. Evert (write-in)

POLITICAL PARTY: None

REASONS: My reason for running is a simple one: to provide adequate representation for the engineering constituency and become more involved in UNO policies.

CONCERNS: Condition of equipment within colleges, especially College of Engineering. State of public perception of students and Student Government. Student rights and involvement in UNO policies.

QUALIFICATIONS: Seven years collective management and interpersonal communications experience. Internal desire for responsible leadership. High level of professionalism in dealing with contacts in support of or against important issues.

BIG WHEELS

Monster trucks display frightening power

BY GREG KOZOL

The people who sell ear plugs must have made a fortune.

A.U.S. Hot Rod Association (USHRA) official inserts his red ear plugs and gives Rob Fuchs a thumbs up sign.

Fuchs, sitting inside his red 1988 Ford F 350 truck, returns the gesture and revs his engine.

The estimated 8,000 fans filling the Omaha Civic Auditorium clap their hands and raise their fists, but their voices are not heard above Fuchs' roaring truck.

The truck, complete with six-foot high tires and "First Blood" painted on the door, skids from the starting line of a 50-foot raceway.

After slowing down for the oval turn, "First Blood" jumps into a louder and faster gear and speeds toward a row of five cars.

"First Blood" hits the first car and bounces 10 feet into the air.

The truck smashed into the final car's roof, then rolls onto the track and crosses the finish line.

Fuchs stops his truck, turns off the engine and the auditorium becomes silent.

A winning time of 10.47 seconds is announced, Fuchs defeated four other trucks to win the monster truck race in USHRA Battle of the Monster Trucks and Mud Bog Races Saturday at the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

The competition featured monster trucks driving over parked cars and jeeps racing through a six-foot deep pit of mud.

Fuchs jumps out of "First Blood" and punches his fist in the air.

Fuchs, a 29-year-old truck-parts manufacturing engineer from Woodstock, Ill., said he has been racing monster trucks for three years.

"You've just got to try it," Fuchs said, describing the appeal of his sport.

"It's like a natural high. I don't know how to describe it."

Monster truck racing is a relatively new sport, which began about 12 years ago, Fuchs said.

"When I first said I wanted to do this, people thought I was insane," Fuchs said.

Despite some snickers, Fuchs said monster truck racing is becoming popular and lucrative.

"Places like Anaheim Stadium in California will sell out with 20,000 people a race," Fuchs said.

Despite driving trucks that cost up to $80,000, Fuchs said corporate sponsorships and a television deal with ESPN have made the sport fairly profitable.

"If you win, you can bring in $3,000 to $3,500 a night," he said.

Monster truck racing has grown from the days when spectators gathered to watch the trucks crush rows of cars.

"Before, it was just entertainment," Fuchs said. "But it's really catching on. People like to see us racing."

Today, monster trucks compete for the fastest time, and the USHRA keeps track of point leaders. Ken Donat, USHRA vice president of operations, agrees the sport has grown.

"It's getting really big," Donat said. "We had 60,000 people for a race in Pontiac Silverdome."

Alternative SPORTS

The Pontiac Silverdome, located near Detroit, has always drawn large racing crowds, Donat said. But Donat said monster trucks have gained popularity outside the motor city.

"It started in the Midwest, so it's really big here," Donat said. "It being an indoor sport helps a lot. In the winter, people can't go to a motor sport except for monster truck racing."

Fuchs said he easily became interested in monster trucks.

"I always had big street trucks. I got carried away, and here I am," Fuchs said.

Fuchs said the noise inside the auditorium does not bother him.

"My helmet muffles the noise really well, but there are other safety concerns."

A driver receives tremendous jolts when the truck hits the cars, Fuchs said.

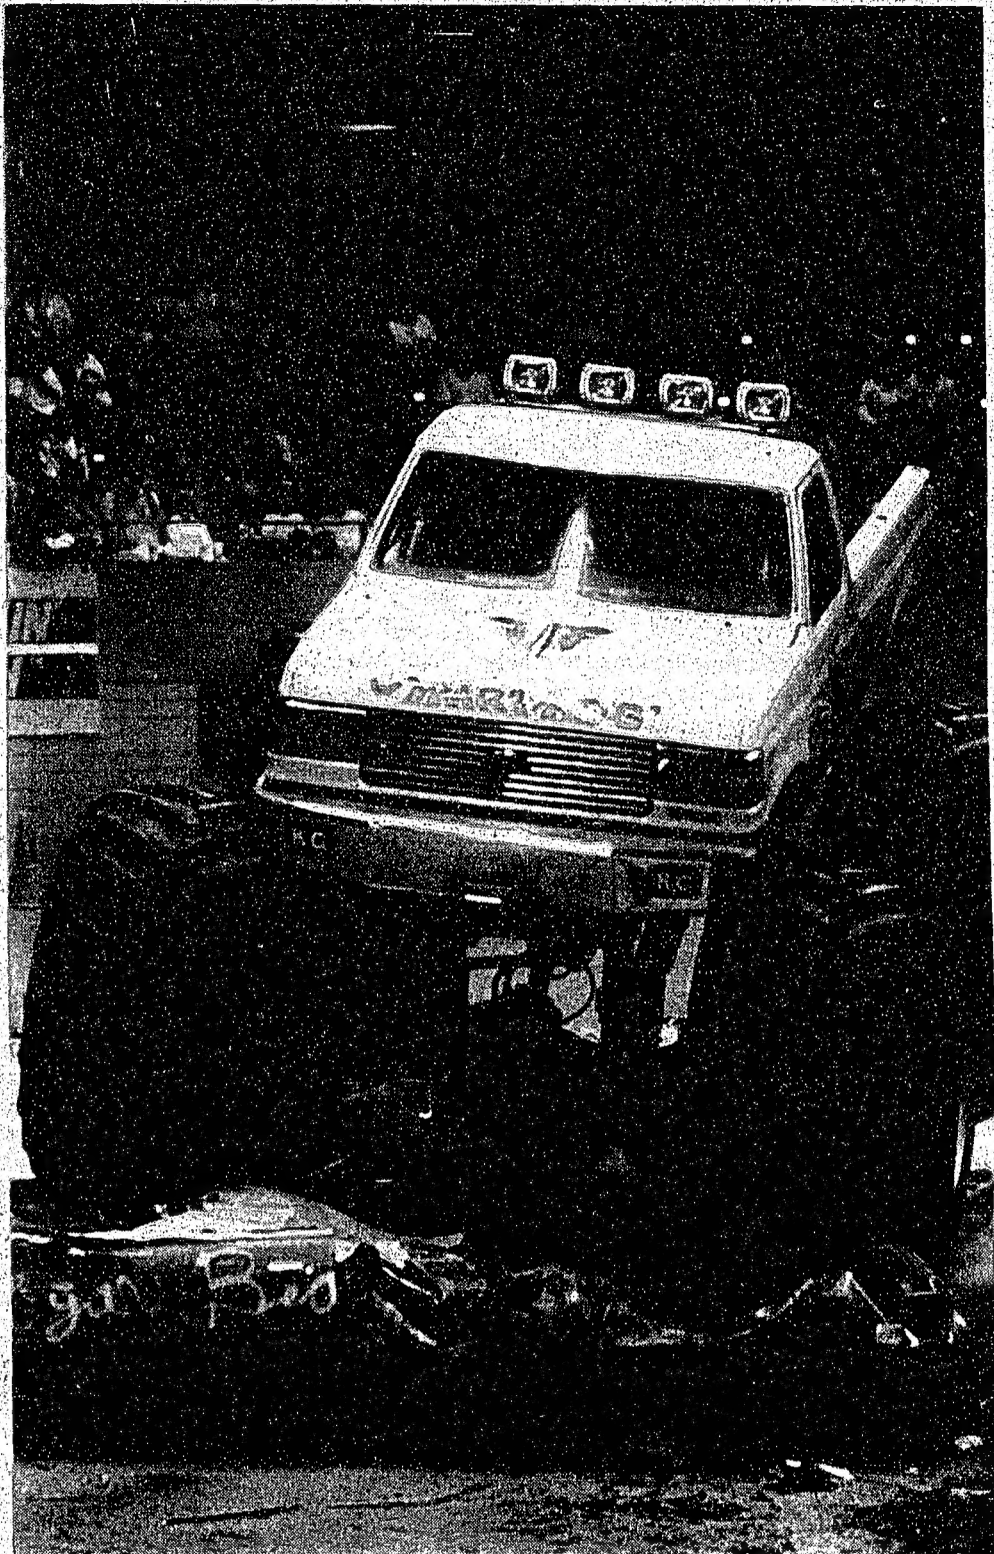

"I've pulled muscles in my back and neck from my head getting snapped so hard. That's why I wear a neck brace in the truck."

One driver broke his back from the impact, Fuchs said.

"It beats you hard," Fuchs said.

Despite pulled neck and back muscles, Fuchs said he enjoys racing monster trucks 50 times a year.

"It beats having a normal job."

— Dave Weaver

And you thought UNO parking was bad. The monster truck "Wart Hog" makes its way to the finish line.

UNO chokes on Mankato State wishbone

BY TONY FLOTT

The Mavericks won 26-7 Saturday.

Unfortunately, it was the Mankato State Mavericks who walked away victorious, defeating the UNO football team.

The loss was UNO's third in its last four games, continuing the late-season slump that the Mavs have suffered for the last three years.

"In the NCC you have to play tough every week," Captain Marc Kimmach said. "I don't think some of the younger guys realize that."

UNO Coach Sandy Buda is not quick to blame any one player for the losing streak.

"In spots we're playing soft on defense, and in spots on offense, we're getting into scoring territory, but we're not intense enough trying to get it in."

"We're knocking, now let's get the door opened," he said.

UNO had a tough time shutting the door on Mankato, which scored a 1-yard touchdown on its first possession of the game.

The scoring drive, powered behind the Mankato wishbone, ate more than 10 minutes of the first quarter.

"They nicked and dined us," Buda said about the Mankato drive that did not produce a large gaining play.

UNO, limited to only three first-half possessions, maneuvered to within scoring position twice, but failed to convert.

Running back LaRon Henderson, who led UNO with 89 yards rushing, was stopped on a fourth-and-one play at the Mankato 38.

UNO's other missed chance at a score occurred when John Bonacci's 25-yard field goal attempt was blocked after an errant snap.

"The offense is dying on us," Kimmach, an outside-linebacker, said. "They're not giving us points anymore."

Offensively, UNO passed for 181 yards. Wide receiver Bobby Gordon hauled in 12 passes for 150 yards, coming within one reception of Danny Fulton's school record for catches in a game.

Buda said Mankato blitzed often, allowing UNO to produce some big plays, but also allowing UNO to give up some big opportunities.

"The stats were even, but we didn't cash in when we needed to," Buda said.

"With the same yardage and the same number of first downs, the score shouldn't have been 26-7," Kimmach said. Kimmach was quick to point out that the defense was not at its best.

"They never had any long runs against us, but they just kept running the dive, the option and the quarterback keeper," Kimmach said.

"We didn't feel like we were out of it, but we didn't have any points until the end of the third quarter, and that's tough," Kimmach said.

The loss drops UNO's overall record to 4-4, 3-3 in the NCC.

"Five times we were down in scoring opportunity, and we scored once, and that's basically the game," Buda said.

The Mavericks will take on Northern Colorado, who defeated North Dakota, Saturday 34-17.

Lady Mavs fail to escape Bison trap

By PAUL WILSON

Saturday night the UNO volleyball team found out the Bison are far from being an endangered species.

The Bison from North Dakota State, ranked No. 4 in Division II, went the five-game distance at the UNO Fieldhouse, before clipping the Lady Mavs by three points. The Bison won the match 15-8, 15-8, 11-15, 12-15 and 15-12.

UNO, ranked No. 10 in Division II, swept the unranked North Dakota Fighting Sioux in three games, 15-7, 15-7 and 15-9 Friday night.

The weekend split leaves the Lady Mavs with a 17-9 overall record and a 5-1 mark in the North Central Conference.

UNO Coach Karen Uhler said she is not disappointed with this weekend's split.

"We dominated one team and took another team to the wire," Uhler said. "We can live with that."

Friday night, UNO jumped to an early lead in each game against North Dakota and never looked back.

"We were never behind in any of the games," Uhler said. "It was a convincing win."

Spearheading the sweep was junior outside-hitter Brenda Baumann, who had 15 kill-spikes.

Uhler said there are added benefits that come with easy victories.

"The early leads gave me the opportunity to get the younger players in the game," she said. "That should pay off as we wind down the season."

Freshman outside-hitter Kim Ostronic agreed with Uhler.

"I enjoy every chance I get to play," she said. "I'm starting to become a more polished player."

Although UNO lost by a narrow margin Saturday night, senior outside-hitter Amy Gradoville said playing North Dakota State was an exciting challenge.

"I love playing against that team," said Gradoville, who led UNO with 21 kill-spikes. "They make you give your best. It was the kind of game that could have gone either way."

Despite posting early leads in the first two games, UNO left the door cracked open for the Bison to come charging through.

"We made some mistakes in the first couple of games," Uhler said. "We'd get ahead but just couldn't slam the door."

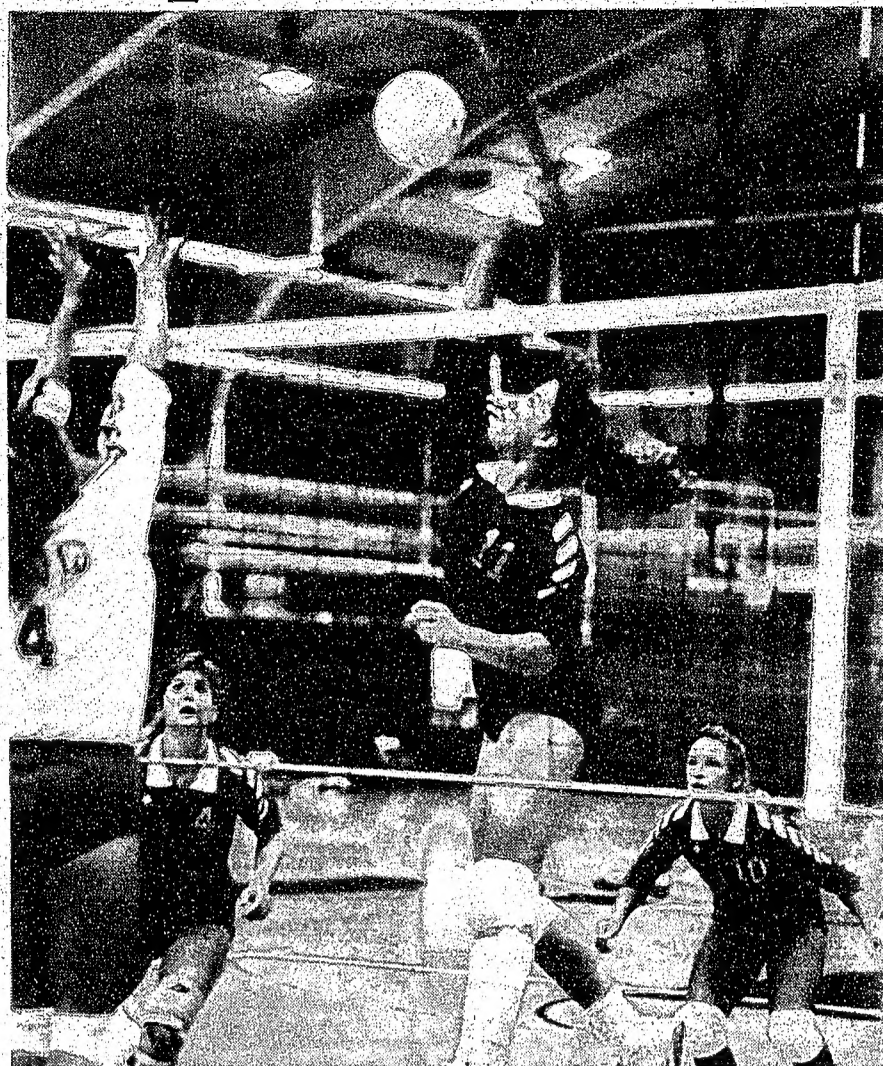

However, the Lady Mavs rebounded by winning the next two games 15-11 and 15-12.

"I'm proud of the team's comeback," Uhler said. "That showed a lot of character. It would have been easy for the team to have given up after losing the first two games."

In the final game of the match, North Dakota State accelerated to a 13-2 lead. The Lady Mavs surged back before suffering a 15-12 loss.

Uhler said the team will not have time to think about Saturday's loss.

"We have a big home game with Northern Colorado this Thursday," she said. "Hopefully we'll get back on the winning track."

Freshman Melanie Marquis (No. 11) treats the fans to a spike.

Mavs look to catch NCC foes off guard

By GREG KOZOL

Although point guard Mike Harner took his 170 assists back home to Indiana, the UNO men's basketball team's main weakness is underneath the basket, not in the backcourt.

"Our biggest concern is depth inside. We have good depth at guard," UNO Coach Bob Hanson said.

Harner set a UNO freshman record for assists last year, but decided not to return his sophomore season.

"He just didn't want to play basketball anymore," Hanson said.

Hanson said two guards will share ball handling responsibilities this season, beginning Nov. 17 against Missouri Western.

"It isn't going to be just one guy at the point," Hanson said. The offense should work, junior guard Thor Palamore said.

"The teams won't focus on one guy as much. That will open things up more," Palamore said.

Hanson is still unsure which players will share the guard duties.

"It's pretty much between four or five guys right now," Hanson said.

Freshmen Terry Henderson, Robert Cottrell and Keith Douglas are battling sophomores Trent Neal and Thad Mott for the guard spots.

Palamore, who led the Mavs in scoring last season, missed the first week of practice with a broken wrist.

"We should have him for the opening game," Hanson said. After losing last year's leading rebounder, Tim Adamek, UNO's depth under the basket remains Hanson's top concern.

"We need to improve rebounding," Hanson said.

Senior forward Dan Olson should lead the Mavs underneath the basket, according to Hanson.

Olson, a 6-foot-7 inch senior from Omaha Burke High School, does not just produce inside the paint, Hanson said. Olson also passes, shoots from the outside and occasionally brings the ball up the court.

Olson said the ability to switch between guard and forward is an asset.

"I think my versatility is one of my strong points, especially driving and dishing off," Olson said.

Inside play should also be aided by 6-10 sophomore center Phil Cartwright.

Cartwright lost 40 pounds over the summer, which Hanson said will add to his game.

"It's helped his mobility, his quickness and his confidence," Hanson said.

Hanson said junior Troy Deane is also expected to contribute, along with a corp of freshmen.

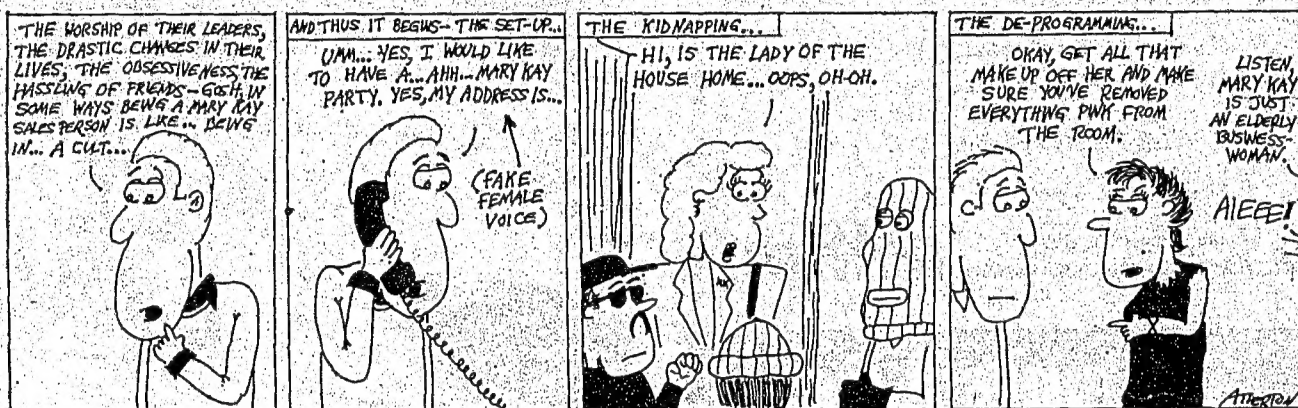

"We need help from the freshman class," Hanson said. "They've got to contribute."

Hanson said freshmen Sven Bonde, Mike Conley, Jeremy Park and Reggie Ward will receive playing time this season.

After finishing 14-14 the last two years, Hanson is optimistic his club will get over the .500 hump.

"We haven't set any goals yet, but I'm always optimistic going into the beginning of the season."

Zetas, Lambdas bounce $1,400 to charity

By AL CLARK

While most UNO students arrived on campus Friday morning, members of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity were bouncing for a good cause.

The Zetas and Lambdas bounced on a trampoline in the Pep Bowl from Friday to Saturday morning. The second annual Bounce-a-Thon raised money for the Easter Seals foundation.

Kelly Kreifels, treasurer of Lambda Chi, said both organizations together raised $1,400.

"The money will go towards funding camps for the handicapped, as well as equipment for them," Kreifels said.

Most of the donations came from individuals, but several businesses helped out, Kreifels said. Businesses that donated $50 or more, such as McDonald's and State Farm Insurance, got their logos on the Bounce-a-Thon sweatshirts, Kreifels said.

To fulfill the pledges, fraternity members were required to bounce for four hours, sorority members for two.

"We're having a lot of fun, and it's for a good cause," Diane Howell, president of Zeta Tau Alpha, said.

Kreifels said bouncing in 40-degree temperatures early Friday morning was a big change from eating in the Caboose.

"Your feet were numb for about the first minute- and-a-half, after that the trampoline seemed much warmer," Kreifels said.

By noon the weather improved, Howell said.

"It turned out to be such a nice day to bounce. I loved it," Howell said.

Other Lambdas and Zetas said they were glad the event drew interest from students who stopped to watch.

Both Zetas and Lambdas thanked KBLZ, UNO's campus rock station, for its donation of disc jockeys and music for the Bounce-a-Thon.

"It would not have been half as fun without the music they played for us," Howell said.

The exposure was good for all the organizations involved, KBLZ station Manager Ed Van Cleave said.

Van Cleave said KBLZ was discovered by many students who didn't know the station was located on campus.
